

BREAKING NEWS Health authorities in NSW have confirmed 40 new coronavirus infections, bringing the state's total to 307. Read more...

Print Email Facebook Twitter More

Chinese hackers 'breach Australian media organisations' ahead of G20

7:30 | By Dylan Welch
Updated 13 Nov 2014, 11:04am

A Chinese hacking group believed to be affiliated with the Chinese government has penetrated Australian media organisations ahead of this weekend's G20 meeting, a global cyber security expert says.

"We started to see activity over the last couple of weeks targeting Australian media organisations and we believe that's related to the G20," Dimitri Alperovitch, co-founder of US computer security company CrowdStrike, told the ABC's 7.30 program.

CrowdStrike has named the group "Deep Panda".

It is the same group that was outed as sneaking into the networks of US foreign policy think tanks at the height of the Iraq crisis in the middle of the year.

"[They] typically go after very strategic interests for the Chinese government," he said.

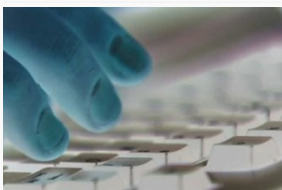

PHOTO: Chinese hackers are attempting to steal questions from reporters ahead of Xi Jinping's visit, a cyber security expert says. (ABC 7.30)

RELATED STORY: Spy agency warns Australian business of G20-linked cyber attacks

Deep Panda and Vixen Panda

Now Deep Panda is targeting Australian media organisations in an attempt to understand the domestic media climate when Chinese president Xi Jinping arrives.

Mr Alperovitch said he could not name the media organisations targeted because of confidentiality reasons.

"[They're looking for] questions they can expect from Australian reporters, what type of coverage, positive or negative, they can expect to see," Mr Alperovitch said.

Mr Alperovitch also identified another Chinese-government-linked hacking group, which he said was responsible for attacks against commercial and government networks in Australia.

Called Vixen Panda, the group has a long track record in Australia.

"Out of all the groups that we track from China... Vixen Panda is the one with the most focus on Australia," he said.

Based on his research, Mr Alperovitch said he believed Vixen Panda was actually a Beijing-based military unit within the People's Liberation Army's Third Department.

The Third Department, or 3PLA as it is known, is China's version of the US National Security Agency (NSA) or the Australian Signals Directorate.

"You have a unit of the Chinese military conducting espionage against Australian Government... and the information that they're stealing is being passed on through the military chain to the leadership of the Chinese government," he said.

Topics: internet-culture, hacking, computers-and-technology, foreign-affairs, world-politics, australia, china

First posted 13 Nov 2014, 8:23am

Print Email Facebook Twitter More

Contact Dylan Welch

"[They're looking for] questions they can expect from Australian reporters, what type of coverage, positive or negative, they can expect to see."

Dimitri Alperovitch

G20 Full Coverage

Tony Abbott's tough talking comes undone at G20

Did the G20 achieve anything, economically speaking?

World leaders share G20 experiences on Twitter

Sending a message: signs from the G20 summit

Barack Obama's Brisbane address: 10 memorable quotes

G20 summit in pictures

This is what G20 protesters want to tell world leaders

G20 Brisbane: Locals play spot the leader

Take the world's hardest G20 quiz

The Drum: How a shirtfront became an own goal

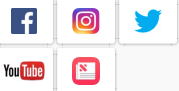

Will growth mean more jobs? Not necessarily

TOP STORIES

- Live: New limits on medicines to fight panic-buying as Dutton warns profiteers
- Coronavirus update: No new cases were recorded yesterday in Wuhan, where it all began
- This is how your life will change if there's a recession
- Opinion: The Government has the power to save struggling households
- Qantas to stand down 20,000 workers due to coronavirus as Joyce warns airline's future at stake
- All 'non-essential' travellers to Tasmania will have to quarantine for 14 days
- Petrol stations keep the change amid global drop in fuel price due to coronavirus
- Chart shows how many people have recovered from coronavirus in Australia
- Australians stuck overseas after 24-hour window to leave ends
- Government urging Catholic schools to remain open amid fears about coronavirus
- 'People will die': Some countries have discussed just letting coronavirus run its course
- Opinion: This is the self-isolation survival kit introverts have sworn by for years
- Can we blame bats for coronavirus? What about pangolins?
- Wonder how dangerous a gathering can be? Here's how one event sparked hundreds of coronavirus cases across Asia
- Schooling parents and carers in home education as Australia braces for potential school closures
- Jobless rate falls as Australian shares make modest recovery
- Sydney cafe owner sacks workforce amid coronavirus downturn as landlords refuse to budge on rents
- Frustration and confusion as schools fail to enforce social distancing
- Pregnant and homeless, this couple does not know how they will self-isolate if they need to
- Reserve Bank expected to cut interest rates ahead of more economic stimulus
- Donald Trump invokes wartime powers to fight 'enemy' coronavirus
- Eurovision song contest, Glastonbury festival cancelled due to coronavirus
- Sorry, are you recording that?: Leaked video shows Adani executive Lucas Dow talking up bigger coal mine
- Vanuatu's Parliament is a boys club, but women are hoping to change that today
- SPORT Analysis: AFL season preview: The knowns and unknowns of the 2020 season
- Fish fingers: 'missing link' for hands discovered in ancient fossil

Get the headlines to your mobile. NEWS on Messenger

CONNECT WITH ABC NEWS

News Podcasts
Catch up with ABC News programs.

GOT A NEWS TIP? If you have inside knowledge of a topic in the news, contact the ABC.

ABC BACKSTORY ABC teams share the story behind the story and insights into the making of digital, TV and radio content.

EDITORIAL POLICIES Read about our editorial guiding principles and the standards ABC journalists and content makers follow. Learn more

FEATURES

Is this our life now for the next 18 months? Could the solution to getting rid of coronavirus be shutting everything down and keeping it that way... for a year-and-a-half?

Messaging from political leaders is improving The Prime Minister who emerged into the courtyard at Parliament House today seemed a very different figure to the one who delivered the folksy "address to the nation", Laura Tingle says.

The race for a vaccine Thirty-five organisations say they're on the way to producing a coronavirus vaccine, and European leaders suggest the regulatory process could be sped up — but most experts believe there's a long way to go.

What working from home looks like Buggies are on the conference calls, cats are taking over keypads and parents are being forced to multi-task like never before.

TOP STORIES

- Live: New limits on medicines to fight panic-buying as Dutton warns profiteers
- Coronavirus update: No new cases were recorded yesterday in Wuhan, where it all began
- This is how your life will change if there's a recession
- Opinion: The Government has the power to save struggling households
- Qantas to stand down 20,000 workers due to coronavirus as Joyce warns airline's future at stake
- All 'non-essential' travellers to Tasmania will have to quarantine for 14 days
- Petrol stations keep the change amid global drop in fuel price due to coronavirus
- Chart shows how many people have recovered from coronavirus in Australia
- Australians stuck overseas after 24-hour window to leave ends
- Government urging Catholic schools to remain open amid fears about coronavirus

JUST IN

- Street artist Anthony Lister allegedly lured and drugged sex assault victims
- Businesses can stand down permanent employees and not pay them. This is how
- Panic buying sees SA shop hours pushed to 24 hours a day
- Coronavirus panic-buying prompts restrictions on prescription medicines
- What coronavirus has done to your superannuation
- All of us have to assume we have the virus: COVID-19 infections rise past 300 in NSW
- Petrol stations keep the change amid global drop in fuel price due to coronavirus
- Outback families order kids home from boarding schools
- I Was Only 19 coronavirus parody removed out of respect for veterans
- Drunk driver who hid in bush after killing woman jailed for six years

MOST POPULAR

- Chart shows how many people have recovered from coronavirus in Australia
- Live: New limits on medicines to fight panic-buying as Dutton warns profiteers
- Glastonbury cancelled in 50th year, new travel advice issued — as it happened
- Coronavirus update: No new cases were recorded yesterday in Wuhan, where it all began
- City of Sydney shuts down gyms, pools after biggest rise in coronavirus cases in NSW
- Coronavirus messaging from political leaders making a much-needed improvement
- 'People will die': Some countries have discussed just letting coronavirus run its course
- Chinese citizens are slowly returning to normal life. Did Beijing get it right?
- This is the self-isolation survival kit introverts have sworn by for years
- Melbourne's food and wine sector on brink of collapse as strict coronavirus measures set in

ANALYSIS & OPINION

- The Government has the power to save struggling households. Here's how
- The knowns and unknowns of the 2020 AFL season
- This is the self-isolation survival kit introverts have sworn by for years
- Coronavirus messaging from political leaders making a much-needed improvement
- The big hit: An extended coronavirus shutdown may change sport as we know it in Australia
- Would you let one person die to save four? Five ways coronavirus will test our ethics
- How much damage could coronavirus ultimately cause? The share market has some answers
- Coronavirus has sparked apocalyptic scenes in Italy. There are lessons to be learned from the country's mistakes
- Coronavirus has my Aussie friends worried about me in India. I might be better off than them
- Coronavirus will inflict financial pain on the AFL and NRL. But who will pick up the bill?

SITE MAP

Sections	Local Weather	Local News	Media	Subscribe	Connect
ABC News	Sydney Weather	Sydney News	Video	Podcasts	Contact Us
Just In	Melbourne Weather	Melbourne News	Audio	Newsletters
World	Adelaide Weather	Adelaide News	Photos
Business	Brisbane Weather	Brisbane News
Health	Perth Weather	Perth News
Entertainment	Hobart Weather	Hobart News
Sport	Darwin Weather	Darwin News
Analysis & Opinion	Canberra Weather	Canberra News
Weather
Topics
Archive
Corrections & Clarifications

Change to mobile view

This service may include material from Agence France-Presse (AFP), APIN, Reuters, AAP, CNN and the BBC World Service which is copyright and cannot be reproduced.
AEDT = Australian Eastern Daylight Savings Time which is 11 hours ahead of GMT (Greenwich Mean Time)